Background and objectives

Background

The City of Calgary surveys citizens about their opinions, preferences, and attitudes in order to help support data-driven City decision-making. The Perspectives on Calgary Survey is one of the ways by which data are collected, and this survey is conducted multiple times throughout the year.

Calgary is a diverse place in terms of race, ancestry, place of origin, religious beliefs, gender identity, age, disability, marital status, family status, source of income, and sexual orientation. In order to understand how well The City of Calgary meets the needs of diverse groups of Calgarians, a survey focusing on Diversity and Inclusion was conducted in July 2023. A similar survey was conducted in late 2018 and in June 2021, and results are compared where applicable.

Methodology

The survey was conducted by Advanis from June 27th to July 7th, 2023, with 500 Calgary residents aged 18 and older via a telephone survey. The average time to complete the survey was 16 minutes.

The survey was conducted using numbers from both landlines (25%) and cell phones (75%) to obtain a random and statistically-representative sample of Calgarians.

The margin of error (MOE) for the total sample of n=500 is ± 4.4 percentage points, 19 times out of 20 (though smaller among subgroups of the total).

To ensure the data was gathered from a representative group of Calgarians, sample quotas were set by age, gender, and city quadrant.

Data were weighted based on the Statistics Canada 2021 Census of Population for age, gender, and city quadrant. The weighting efficiency was 86%. Although the results are weighted, sample sizes for each question represent the number of actual respondents (i.e., unweighted n).

Throughout the report, ↓ denotes a significant decrease from the previous wave and ↑ denotes a significant increase from the previous wave, unless otherwise specified.

Key findings

Consistent with 2021, the vast majority of Calgarians believe people in Calgary in general, as well as in their neighbourhoods, are welcoming and that they feel that they belong in their neighbourhood.

- More than nine-in-ten Calgarians agree that people in Calgary are very welcoming and friendly (96%), have opportunities to express their unique cultures (94%), that they belong (92%) and feel safe (92%) in their neighbourhood, and that people with diverse identities are made to feel welcome (91%) in their neighbourhood.
- Although most (88%) agree that their neighbourhood is safe for all residents and visitors, about one-quarter (27%) of Calgarians disagree that Calgary is safe for all residents and visitors, regardless of things like ethnicity, race, religion, income, or sexual identity.
- These perceptions have remained stable since 2021.

While agreement that The City is moving in the right direction to address Truth and Reconciliation has increased since 2021, support for low-income households and addressing mental health and addiction are areas where Calgarians feel The City could do more.

- Between two-thirds and three-quarters of Calgarians agree that The City is moving in the right direction to address Truth and Reconciliation (75%; up from 65% in 2021), gender equity (74%), social well-being (71%), and anti-racism (69%).
- Support for low-income households (51%) and mental health and addiction (46%; down from 62% in 2021) are areas where only half or fewer Calgarians agree that The City is moving in the right direction to address these issues.

Key findings

Perceptions of The City meeting the needs of Racialized Calgarians are mostly positive, but roughly half of Calgarians feel The City could do more to meet the needs of people experiencing challenges with mental health, addictions, or homelessness.

- Most Calgarians agree that The City meets the needs of people who are recent immigrants (80%), Racialized Calgarians (76%; up from 69% in 2021), various age demographics, i.e., children (82%), youth (78%), and older adults (77%), people with disabilities (69%), and of people who are members of the 2SLGBTQIA+ community (68%).
- Relatively fewer agree that the City meets the needs of Indigenous Peoples (63%), people who rent their homes (61%; down from 75% in 2021), and people in low-income households (57%).
- Only half or less of Calgarians agree that The City meets the needs of people experiencing challenges with mental health or addictions (49%; down from 56% in 2021) and people experiencing homelessness (45%).

For The City to better meet the needs of all Calgarians, the main suggestions are to listen and collaborate with citizens, affordable housing, addressing homelessness and high-risk populations, and mental health supports.

- One-in-six (17%) Calgarians indicate that they have personally experienced challenges with inclusion when accessing any City services, program, or facilities, which is unchanged from 2021.
- The most common suggestions on how The City can better meet the needs of all Calgarians are to listen and collaborate with citizens (13%) and affordable housing (13%, up from 4% in 2021).
 - Addressing homelessness and high-risk populations is mentioned more frequently compared to 2021 as well (11%; up from 4%), as is mental health supports (8%; up from 4%).

Categories:

- High school or less
- Some university / college diploma
- University or post-graduate degree

Segment differences

Any statistical differences between demographic groups are indicated with arrows to indicate where a group is statistically higher or lower than all other segments combined.

- To illustrate, the statistical tests performed when comparing three groups are as follows:

- This approach identifies differences between one group and everyone else who is not part of that group. To illustrate using the example below, 55+ year olds are significantly less likely to believe that people in Calgary are very welcoming and friendly compared everyone who is not part of that group (i.e., those aged 18 to 54).
- Note that we cannot conclude that this sentiment is lower for those who are 55+ years old when compared 18-to-34-years-old or 35-to-54-years-old individually (which may not be true).
